Flood dries up Bethel's main water source

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Last Wednesday evening, July 11, when the sun set over the Chapman Brook watershed on the west side of Barker Mountain the impoundment that serves customers of the Bethel Water District held 160,000 gallons of clear, clean water.

It had done so for well over a century.

But when the sun rose,

'We thank the people who have conserved, but we also need everyone to realize that this is still a very serious situation.'

DON KATLIN

Assistant Superintendent, Bethel Water District

brightly, the following morning, the water was gone, displaced by tons of gravel, boulders and shattered, stripped trees.

Also gone was Chapman Brook itself, at least as the placid and mossy mountain stream that had for so long provided reliable water for Bethel.

In its place was a raw, zig-zagging, mica-flecked gash down the mountainside, some stretches hundreds of feet wide and scoured yards deep into glacial tills that had rested untouched for thousands of years.

The heavy rains that ravaged the Bethel Water District last week also caused significant damage elsewhere in this part of Oxford County.

Roads were hit the hardest.

By Thursday morning routes 2 in Gilead, 26 in Newry and 113 in Evans Notch, and the North Road in Gilead were closed to traffic, due to washed out or badly undermined

Maine Gov. John Baldacci toured flood damage in the Bethel area Monday, three days after declaring a state of emergency in Oxford County. One of the stops on the tour was the badly damaged impoundment dam of the Bethel Water District. The governor's entourage included state, county and Water District officials, as well as print and broadcast media. Here, standing on the lip of the 114-year-old dam, the governor and Doug Wilson of D.A. Wilson & Co. discuss the damage. In the right foreground of the photo, FEMA representative Aaron Sines, who had clambered up to the ravaged streambed ahead of the governor's party, studies the damage on his own. Sines, whose home office is in Bangor, had been posted to New Orleans following Hurricane Katrina, but he still described the far more localized natural destruction here as "unbelievable." More photos, including before and after views of the reservoir behind the dam, and other area flood damage, can be found on pages 4 and 5.

SAD44 looking farther afield for possible merger partners

By ALISON ALOISIO

In seeking a date to the consolidation dance, SAD44's obvious choice would be SADs 43 (Rumford) and 21 (Dixfield).

But the Bethel-based school system is also courting Rangeley, SAD17 (Paris) and 39 (Buckfield).

Districts statewide need to name their intended partners by the end of August.

A recently-approved state law requires the consolidation of school systems over the next year into Regional School Units (RSUs).

Supt. Dave Murphy told the School Board Monday that he met last week with the superintendent of the Rangeley system.

"The interesting thing about Rangeley is their property valuations are more similar to us than the other districts," Murphy said.

As for nearby Rumford and Dixfield, the potential for a merger with those districts has some SAD44 directors concerned their towns would have little voting clout.

In late June, SAD44 directors turned out in force for an informational meeting in Rumford with representatives from the Department of Education.

The directors were joined by several Bethel officials and selectmen and a few residents from other district towns. They asked many questions about the process.

Financial data needed
Another key factor in the choice of consolidation partners is the financial impact on towns when cost-sharing for the new RSU is determined.

Districts are currently submitting their financial data to the Department of Education and, at the same time, requesting information on the financial impact if they combine with neighboring districts.

Murphy said that in addition to Rangeley and SADs 43 and 21, he has also requested data for SADs 17 and 39.

The information requested for 17 and 39 would provide

Warden nabs felon after swampy chase

By ALISON ALOISIO

A man wanted on a felony warrant was arrested Saturday night after a three-hour search in swampy terrain near Vernon Street in Bethel.

The chase began about 3:30 p.m., when Officer T.J. Reese of the Bethel Police Department was conducting a routine traffic stop on Vernon Street, Chief Alan Carr said.

Reese obtained IDs from the driver and passenger and went back to his cruiser to check them with the dispatcher, Carr said.

The passenger, Gary L.

Officials: 911 address numbers can count big when time counts

By ALISON ALOISIO

It's been a decade since the E-911 house numbering system went into effect.

Have you put up your number yet?

Not everyone has, according to local emergency responders. And it could mean the difference between life and death.

Bethel Police Chief Alan Carr estimates that one out of every 10 times his officers respond to a call, they have trouble finding a residence because it's not numbered, or the number isn't clearly visible.

Carr recalled one case in which emergency personnel had trouble finding the location of a young boy, who had been injured in his home.

The difficulties have come in the aftermath of a fire in the downtown area. "You're usually pretty fast-paced and you need to be able to see the numbers," Carr also said. "If you can't see the number at night, it's a problem."

The problem is compounded when new police officers are hired who are not familiar with the town and its residents, he said.

Jim O'Brien, a police officer, said he has seen such problems.

ASC to sell last resort

ASSOCIATED PRESS

American Skiing Co. said Monday it was selling its last ski area and going out of business.

American Skiing, which owned 10 ski areas as recently as 2001, said it would sell its flagship The Canyons, a 3,700-acre resort in Park City, Utah, for $100 million to an affiliate of Toronto-based Talisker Corp., a luxury resort club operator that has invested heavily in lodging at Deer Valley, another Park City resort.

Talisker became owner of land and mineral rights at Deer Valley and Park City Mountain Resort, which are operated by separate companies, when it bought United Park City Mines in 2003.

American Skiing, meanwhile, will "wind down its affairs" by September, said B.J. Fair, president and chief executive.

OVERFLIGHT DEADLINE EXTENDED

To the Editor:
As many residents of Western Maine know, the Air National Guard (ANG) had recently proposed to lower their flight training altitude from 6,300-2,800 feet down to 500 feet in an area of western Maine that includes our towns.
The first news of this was meager (my town of Woodstock never received notice) and had a public comment period ending in May with no address or phone number to respond to.
That deadline was later extended to July 15 and meetings in the area have been informing citizens of what the proposed changes to the Condor Military Operations Area (MOA) would mean and where to send comment.
Unfortunately, the information presented in the draft Environmental Assessment produced by the ANG is imprecise, sometimes inaccurate, and needs clarification. Citizens who have read through this document are gravely concerned about its implications, as is our congressional delegation.
Wednesday, July 11, I attended the public hearing in Farmington. The ANG personnel present listened carefully to our comments and answered questions, and we learned more about what the altered program would involve. For example, the program will involve 350 sorties a year, but due to the inability to transport enough fuel in the summer, these sorties would be clustered in 15-16 weeks during the winter months, averaging about 21 sorties each week during this period. One very important point that the fighter pilot present revealed is that the altimeter in the plane doesn't work at the low altitudes being proposed. Their 500-foot floor is something they estimate visually — while flying at 480 knots.
I was so proud of the more than 125 articulate western Maine residents who turned out for this meeting to express their concerns and ask questions. We were ordinary people, environmental engineers, pilot association members, conservationists, nonprofit community organization representatives, selectmen, and more than half a dozen retired Air Force pilots. Although many reiterated their support and gratitude for the ANG and agreed that the pilots need to train, not one person spoke in favor of the proposed Condor MOA. All the former Air Force pilots spoke against it, raising again and again the same concerns that have been expressed at local selectmen meetings. They said that the high speeds, low altitude, the use of flares, the possibility for human error make this a very unsafe prospect. They questioned the significant disruption to the airspace for local traffic, which would need to halt, as a visual identification is useless at those closing speeds. This would impact our local economy severely. And then there is the noise. The levels described in the draft Environment Assessment are considerably above what humans can tolerate, rated in decibels.
We learned at the Farmington meeting that this same proposal was made to lower the MOA floor in Idaho and it was rejected by strong citizen opposition.
I have expressed my concerns to our legislators and have received a reply from Sen. Snowe, in which she indicates that she and the rest of the Maine Congressional Delegation have requested an extension for the public comment period, along with an elevation of the current Environmental Assessment to a more comprehensive Environmental Impact Statement. In addition, they requested that Maine be granted intervenor status, which means that the state will be able to provide information to the FAA.
Both the Maine DOT (Transportation) and the Maine DEP (Environmental Protection) are concerned about this proposal. Governor Baldacci has been concerned from the start and he is responsible for talking to the Air National Guard today (July 12) and having them agree to extend the public comment period until Aug. 15. The message at the Farmington meeting Wednesday night from the Lt. Col., who is in charge of the entire Northeast from Maryland to Maine, is "It is not a done deal," and that our letters do count. In fact, the points made in our letters are what are going into the next Environmental Assessment that the FAA will look at. That is the purpose of the public comment period: to gather information from the people on the ground who live in the area.
The Air Force representatives kept emphasizing that we need to speak up. First, you can write a "snail mail" letter to: Lt. Col. Landon Jones; Air National Guard Readiness Center; Chief, Environmental Planning Branch, NGB/A7CVP; 3500 Fetchet Ave.; Andrews AFB, MD 20762-5157. Then you can copy that and send it via e-mail to our Congressional Delegation: Snowe, Collins, Allen and Michaud (Google them and go to "contact").
The Environmental Assessment will say there is no impact on the local economy and way of life, unless we speak up and tell them how we feel. Please take action.

MORE THAN A TOOLBOX

To the Editor:

I am one of the three primary local authors of the Mahoosuc Region Resource Report highlighted in last week's Citizen. The other two authors were Jim List, Community Science Network in Hanover, and Kirk Siegel, Caribou Recreation in Bethel.

The toolbox section in Volume 2 of the Report described in last week's article is a critical component for determining our regional environmental and economic future. The toolbox section is not possible without the important baseline information about our region's past and present provided in Volume 1 — Resource Values. This volume is a rich collection of information about the ecology, history, land use changes, shifting economy, recreation and tourism, forestry, etc., of the Mahoosuc Region. There are also individual case studies of local businesses involved in forestry, outdoor recreation, and the arts.

One of the prime reasons for concern leading to this report has been the major forestland ownership changes in the Mahoosuc Region during the last ten years. The Land Use section in Volume 1 provides a new analysis of forestland ownership changes from 1980 to 2006. The main conclusion is that even in 1995, most of the forestland in this region was owned in large tracts by three major traditional paper companies and one long-term family: respectively Boise Cascade, International Paper, James River/Crown Vantage (formerly Brown Paper Company); and the Pingree family. Within ten years, by 2006, only Pingree still owned and managed land in this region. All the paper company land has been sold, much of it to new types of landowners who are typically not long-term owners. Volume 1 describes the potentially significant impacts on the forestry and tourism industries, and the ecology of this region of these lands being sold and divided into smaller parcels.

Other highlights of Volume 1 include:

The Ecology section describes how geology, soils, and diverse natural communities have uniquely defined this region. The Mahoosuc Region is home to one of the most "in need of conservation" bird species — the high elevation Bicknell's thrush. Threats to the ecology and wildlife of the region are described.

The Economy section provides important demographic information about population trends; shifting economy from manufacturing to tourism and the service sectors; and wage levels.

The Recreation and Tourism section includes important revenue information rates for Maine and New Hampshire on wildlife-related activities — hunting, fishing and wildlife viewing.

The Forestry section highlights important forest soils, local harvesting trends, and global trends impacting this traditional industry.

Other highlights of Volume 2 include:

The Options for a Sustainable Economic section includes new strategies for a robust regional economy through: voluntary third-party forestry certification; The Maine Nature Tourism Initiative (Fermatta Study); Hand-made in the Northern Forest highlighting the creative economy and local artisans; and voluntary green certification programs in New Hampshire and Maine for hotels and lodging establishments.

There is much more important new information in both volumes of the Mahoosuc Region Resources Report than the highlights I've described above. It does not have to be read in its entirety but rather can be easily read in sections depending on an individual's interest. I hope that this report is aggressively used as a resource for protecting the environment and creating a sustainable economy in this magnificent region.

ART FAIR THANKS

To the Editor:

Organizing and orchestrating a successful festival requires the help and cooperation of dozens of individuals, each with their unique talents and resources. The 18th annual Bethel Art Fair is an example of this and the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce has many people and companies to thank.

The resources provided by business sponsors allows us to do things such as renting tents and portable toilets, providing music and activities and bringing visitors to the festival through marketing. The business sponsors this year were: Coca-Cola Bottling of Northern New England, Portland Natural Gas Transmission Systems, Western Maine Health, Bethel Inn Resort, Northeast Bank, Oxford Networks, Downeast Enterprises, Maine Press, the Good Food Store and the RiverView Resort. The Mahoosuc Arts Council provides the funds for the very colorful inflatable sculpture and the Mahoosuc Kids Association provides the materials and people to oversee the children's art activity area.

The organizing committee is a small but effective twosome, the dynamic duo of Irene McGrew and Heather Hale-Nivus. The cast of volunteers, who did everything from set up tents, carry tables, selling raffle tickets, posters, duck tickets, and beverages and then clean-up at the end of the day and these individuals are also a big help to both the vendors and the visitors! Many thanks to: David Freiday, Doug Zinchuk, Dillon Gillies, Mike O'Donnell, Kevin Pennell, Richard Johnson, Amy Lehman, Colleen Files, Cynthia Moran-Laux, Cathy Rainville, Sue Milton, Sylvia Clanton, Ginny Walker, Sharon Haendel, Rosabelle Tift, Tim Carter, Ray Higby, John Amann, Al Cressy, Susan Herlihy, Julie Edes, Marcia Foster-Austin, Joe and Lynn Arizzi, Bill White, Chuck Thibodeau, Karen McElroy, and Amy McLaughlin.

The daytime event ended at 4 p.m., but the towns of Bethel and Woodstock, and our businesses in the community, stepped up to provide the needed funds to have a nice fireworks show at dusk. Many thanks to the Bethel Inn Resort, Sudbury Inn, Sunday River Real Estate, The Victoria Inn and Restaurant, Law Offices of Gregory Files, PA, All Doyles Cleaning Service, Gideon Hastings House/22 Broad Street, Bear River Trading Post and Dillon and Paula Gillies.

An additional thanks goes to the many artists and crafters who are the heart and soul of this event. The artists and photographers were: Thomas Brennan, Andy Curran, Greg Currier, June Drogoun, Vi Eastman, Pamela Jo Ellis, Joseph Finn, Johnna G. Haskell, Scott D. Hunter, Sandra L. Huston, Brenda L.B. Kenney, Sue MacDonald, M. Dirk MacKnight, Mr. Tracy Medling, Olga Miller, Brenda Moore Stickney, Kathleen Perelka, Scott Perry, Lorraine Poirier, Dana Reney, Carole Rickards, Randall Rickards, Irene Rothe, Roland Simard, Diane Snow, David B. Tibbetts, Jennifer R. Wadsworth, Tom White. The crafters were: Nick Bartlett, Beth Bean, Eda Benttinen, Reginald Brown, Dave and JoAnne Caron, Mira Coleman, Leslie Dionne, Andrea Ford, Mary Isham (also displaying wall art), Ken Jorgensen, Robert F. Keniston, Eileen Laperle, Gary LaRose, Jim Mann (Mt. Mann Jewelers.), Jerrold and Tracie Mason (Mason Antler Design.), Grace McKivergan, R. Nickie Nickerson, Susan E. Peterson, Brian Phelps (Maine Artisans Wood Gallery), Pat Stewart, Heidi Wilde.

Finally, a great deal of support for all community events comes from the Bethel Police and the town of Bethel, and the Bethel Fire Department was kind enough to allow parking in back of their station. A huge debt of gratitude goes to Gould Academy for the continued use of their tables and chairs.

This annual event is one that many people look forward to. Make sure to mark the calendars for Saturday, July 5, 2008, when we will all be gathered on the Bethel Common once again. If there is any interest in being on the Bethel Art Fair organizing committee, please contact the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce office.

W.E.S. TO CELEBRATE ITS 20TH

To the Editor:

This fall the Woodstock Elementary School will be opening its doors for the 20th year. The Woodstock P.T.A. is planning a celebration of this 20th Anniversary.

On Aug. 15, the W.P.T.A. is sponsoring three events to celebrate. There will be a Children's Carnival, a Public Spaghetti Supper, and Evening Entertainment by Mike Miclon. All of these events are free and go from 2 to 8 p.m.

We are hoping to have a great turnout of former students and their families. We are attempting to get in touch with everyone who has worked at W.E.S. since the doors opened in 1987. If you or a family member was a Woodstock student, please try to stop by the school to help us celebrate.

We would like to cover bulletin boards with pictures taken over the past twenty years. If you have any pictures taken at W.E.S. that you would be willing to share, please bring them with you or drop them off at school on any Monday-Thursday.

We look forward to celebrating our anniversary with the whole community. As our way of expressing our gratitude for twenty years of support, the entire event is free.

A RIVER IS NOT A LAKE

To the Editor:

Now for the rest of the "Round Pond" saga (See Citizen, July 12). Samuel B. Locke himself, in drafting the description of the property he was selling to the railroad in 1850 applied the initial name of Locke's Pond to the little body of water his dam created, and upon the recording of that deed, legally established its being referred to as such.

However, the state of Maine would subsequently assign the name Alder River to that area of the mill pond between the dam and the Tank, due to the constant current moving through the narrow channel in the village, and continues to refer to it as the Alder River in the legal documents and recorded instruments such as deeds, maps, and plans prepared by state agencies, as do other parties engaged in similar matters involving that short stretch of water.

Many of these documents are on file in the Greenwood Town Office and were readily available to the Planning Board as a tool in determining what is and what is not appropriate in reviewing plans put before them.

Thus it is very evident the members' declaration that the "200 foot wide 30 foot deep stream" Mr. Lawrence was alluding to, is a lake, appears to be more from battling the breeze around the table than examining (if such was attempted) the valid documentation at their fingertips.

Even a cursory study of the Tax Maps of the property bounding this small body of water will reveal the Registry of Deeds' book and page, copies of which are on file in town offices, that contain the property's description, such as in Book 258 page 464 or Book 400, page 508, that clearly state being bounded by Alder River. Two documents in particular the Board should have studied closely, showing the area and waters Mr. Lawrence wants to place his "Round Pond" marina in, both bear the name Alder River for that stretch of waterway.

One is a 1949 Canadian National Railways' deed with a detailed map regarding the sale of property to E. L. Tebbets; the other is the 1979 state of Maine DOT plan for a new bridge over the Alder River and a relocation of the entrance to Greenwood Road from Route 26.

We all know the state did not install that big culvert somewhere on the other side of the mill dam.

The members of Greenwood's Planning Board all certainly owe the residents a public and honest explanation as to why they either failed to avail themselves of these documents or chose to ignore their content, and how they could conclude that a river is a lake.

Gentlemen, pre-conceived cut-and-dried decisions are not the way to conduct the affairs of your board in matters affecting the citizens of Greenwood. Shame on you!

DUCK RACE THANKS

To the Editor:

The Waterford PTO would like to thank everyone who participated in the third annual Duck Race on July 4th. Thanks to your support, the Waterford Memorial School PTO raised $1,700.

Shortly after the other festivities on the 4th, nearly 400 plastic ducks were dropped into Kedar Brook in Waterford and made their way to a crew of "Duck Meisters," who plucked them out as they crossed the finish line.

This year, with the generous support of local merchants and community members, the first 21 ducks to cross the finish line won prizes for their lucky "owners." Even the stragglers served a noble cause: each duck entered represented a contribution to the Waterford PTO.

Proceeds from the race will go a long way toward sending our students in grades 4th through 6th to the Boston Museum of Science in the spring.

The PTO would like to thank the following contributors of prizes for their generosity: The Bethel Citizen, The Bethel Inn, Cheryl Cheever, Louise Fillebrown, Nancy Forest, The Highlands Golf Course, Melby's Market, The Oxford County Fair, Santa's Village, The Seadogs, Shawnee Peak, The Silver Spur, Kathie Simmons, Springer's Store, Sunday River and Wal-Mart.

Flood

The havoc that produced the scene resulted from freakishly heavy overnight rains. By some reports as much as seven inches of rain fell in less than an hour.

The rain caused substantial damage throughout the area (see related story), but the effect was felt most in the Chapman Brook watershed, where the terrain's steep inclines channeled the destructive force of all the water.

"It was a 117-year storm," said John Head, chairman of the Water District's Board of Trustees.

Even that might be conservative. Don Kaitlin, district assistant superintendent said an engineer from the Maine Emergency Management Agency who toured the watershed after the storm put the time frame of such an event at more like 500 to 1,000 years.

Recovery

But despite what Governor John Baldacci later termed "enormous" devastation in the watershed, faucets in Bethel never ran dry.

On Thursday morning, with their main source of water suddenly, and perhaps permanently off line, BWD trustees had notices posted throughout town urging residents to practice "extreme conservation."

All non-essential water use, including washing cars, watering lawns and doing laundry, was prohibited.

The local car wash and laundromat voluntarily closed.

With the restrictions in effect there was enough water already in the system (stored in a 500,000-gallon underground reservoir on Paradise Street) to meet minimal needs for three days or so, Head said.

To bolster that supply, 8,000-gallon tank trucks began hauling in water from the Rumford Water District.

And on Friday a crew and equipment from the Auburn Water District helped Bethel run about 1,500 of above-ground pipe to tap a relatively undamaged stream below the incapacitated impoundment.

Over the weekend the situation had stabilized to the point where BDW officials could put out word that it was OK to do laundry.

Outdoor water use is still prohibited.

On Wednesday Kaitlin stressed the ongoing severity of the situation.

"We want to thank the people who have conserved," he said, "but we also want everyone to know that this is still a very serious situation."

Down the road

Neither the water tankers nor the newly tapped stream is a long-term solution to Bethel's water needs.

The current jury-rigged system can probably take the town through the next few months, Head said, but the district quickly needs to come up with a plan for developing and funding a new water source.

The idea of seeking an alternative source for Bethel's water is hardly new.

As long ago as the real estate boom of the 1980s questions were raised about the long-term adequacy of Chapman Brook, both because of capacity questions and because such "open-source" (i.e., not underground) systems were likely to come under stricter state regulation.

A 1987 report on the situation concluded: "In short, the Chapman Brook supply may have to be phased out as a primary source."

Last week Mother Nature probably settled the issue.

(Next week: likely options for the future, and how they might be funded.)

The damage was worst on Route 113, where there were multiple mudslides and the bridge carrying the road over Little Lary Brook, about two miles south of Route 2, was damaged to the point that it will have to be replaced.

By Friday all the roads except Route 113 had been at least patched to passable and were reopened.

But it could be the end of August before the damaged bridge on 113 is replaced and the road reopened to through traffic, according to the Maine Department of Transportation.

There was also considerable off-road destruction, especially directly below the Chapman Brook watershed.

At Bethel's Angevine Park, the parking lot was eroded, sections of fencing flattened and the manmade swimming pond was partially filled with hundreds of cubic yards of muddy silt.

"The bottom has to be pumped out, because there's two feet of this stuff in there," Selectman Don Bennett said Wednesday, "and the banks and beaches have to be cleared of the thick layer of muck and sludge."

As a result the park has been closed for the remainder of the season, Town Manager Scott Cole said Monday.

It is expected to reopen in June of next year, Cole said.

Next door to the park, Doug and Jane Walker had lived in the same home for 20 years, and never had any problems with nearby Chapman Brook.

But the couple woke Thursday morning to find the front end of their pickup truck hanging over a two-foot-deep gully through their driveway.

A smaller car behind the truck had been carried along several feet by floodwaters and left partially buried in gravel.

Damage to the property and vehicles was extensive, and none of it will be covered by the Walker's homeowner's policy, Jane said Wednesday.

On the other side of Barker Mountain, Sunday River Ski Resort was also hit hard by the floodwaters.

Sections of several roads washed out or succumbed to sinkholes, and a deep gully ran alongside Barker Lodge.

Close calls

Miraculously, there were no serious injuries as a result of the flooding, but there were some close calls.

A woman who tried to drive through water covering the road to the Summit Hotel at Sunday River Ski Resort was trapped in her car.

A security officer from the resort was able to drive to her in a large maintenance truck, and he got her out of the car.

The rising waters then carried the car down Barker Brook.

In Gilead, two young men from New Hampshire escaped injury when they drove their car over a gap left in the road by a washed out bridge on Route 113.

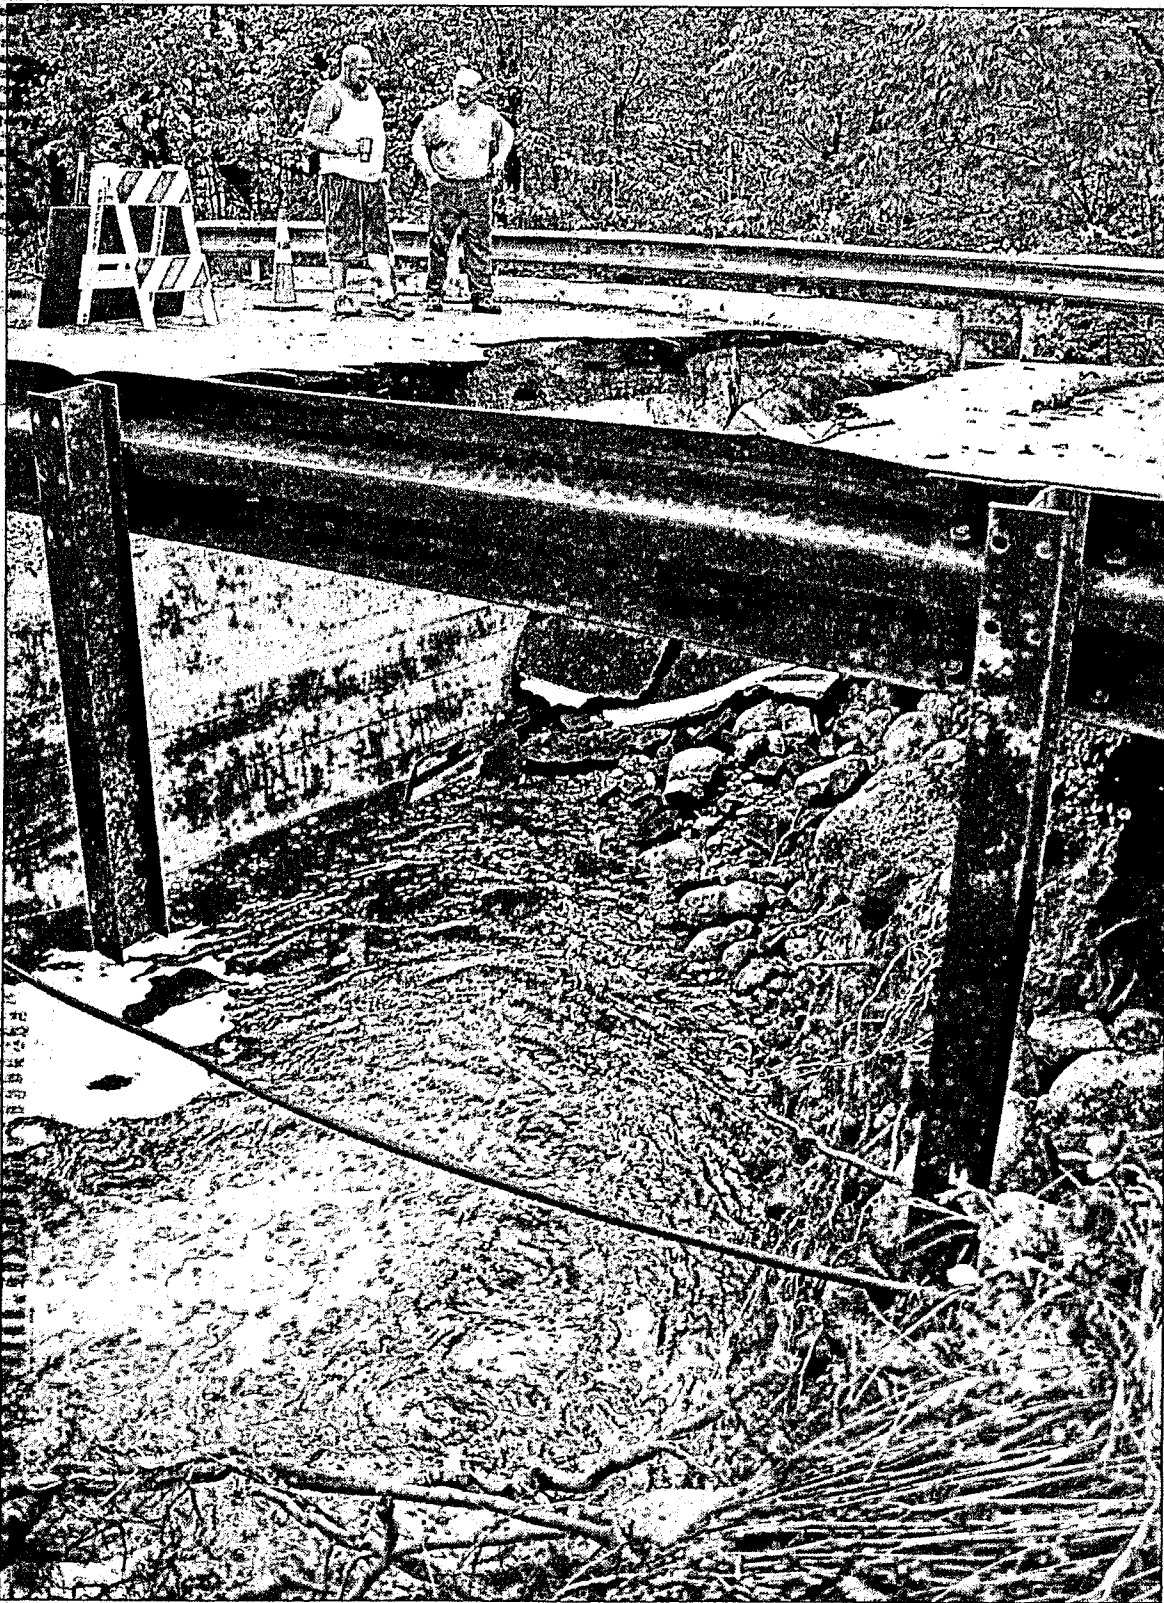

Gilead firefighters Richard Saunders and Jamie McLean drove the same road in the GFD's utility truck and also jumped the gap, but the vehicle struck the far side of the road. The men received bumps and bruises, and the truck was totaled.

State of Emergency

On Friday Gov. John Baldacci declared a state of emergency in Oxford County, as an initial step toward freeing up state and federal resources to help repair the damage.

On Monday Baldacci was in the area to see the damage firsthand, and later that day formally sought more than half a million dollars in federal aid, including assistance from the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

District

Two financial scenarios: SAD44 combined with both those districts; and SAD44 combined with only SAD17.

Penalties possible

Small districts that do not consolidate face penalties from the state in the form of reduced aid.

But should SAD44, or any other school system, be "rejected" by all its neighbors as a partner, there would be no penalty.

And the School Board has not ruled out the possibility of going it alone, if the impact of the penalties is not dramatic.

A district that does not join with another initially has the option of doing so at a later date, state officials said.

SAD44 directors Monday worried that time is growing short to make their decision on consolidation.

"We had expected this data [from the state] July 2, and it's now going to be the end of July," said Woodstock director Marcel Polak. "We'll have to make a decision in two weeks time."

In addition to SAD44, tuition towns Gilead and Upton must also file their own notices of intent to organize with other school units, Murphy said.

After the notices are submitted, a regional committee would be formed to organize the RSU.

But it is still up to each existing school board to submit its own plan to the state.

If approved at that level, the plan would be voted upon in referendum in all the towns involved.

The School Board has not ruled out the possibility of going it alone, if the impact of the penalties is not dramatic.

Still waiting on Newry

Murphy said he has still not received final word from the state on what would happen to the current "Newry" funding in SAD44.

Two years ago an exemption from a new local cost-sharing formula was granted to SAD44.

Had the formula been applied here, it would have shifted much of the local cost from property-rich Newry to other district towns.

Murphy has inquired about the status of the exemption several times, but has not yet received a definitive answer.

New hirings, bleachers

In other business Monday, the directors approved the hiring of Leslie Bonney for the newly-created position of school social worker. She is a licensed clinical social worker and is certified as a drug and alcohol counselor, Murphy said.

Also hired was Jillian Manzer as half-time athletic director at Telstar. Manzer recently received a master's degree in communications from Clark University, Murphy said.

She will also serve as a half-time educational technician.

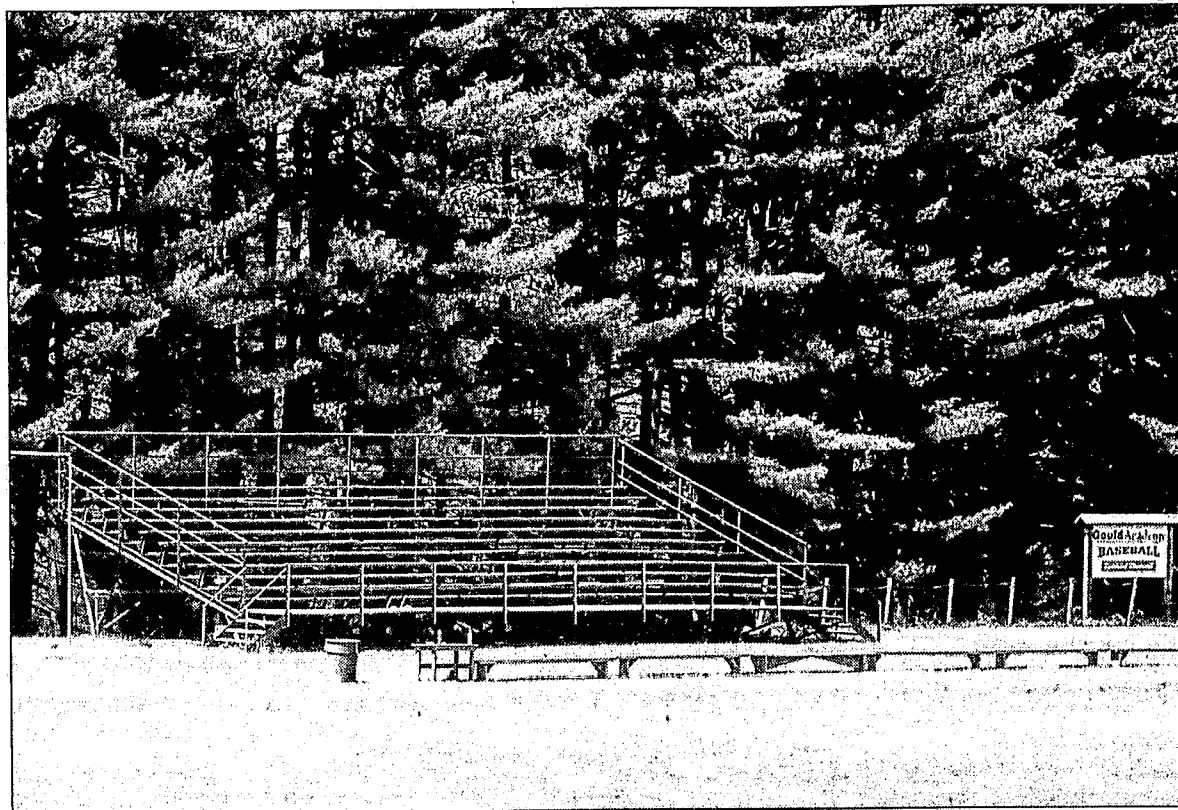

Directors also accepted the donation of a set of bleachers from Gould Academy.

D.A. Wilson & Co. is expected to move the seats to the Telstar athletic fields. The bleachers will be placed on the baseball field side of the track.

Student expelled

A Telstar High School student who confessed last month to making two bomb threats at the school was expelled Monday by the School Board, Murphy said Tuesday.

The student may apply for reinstatement at some point in the future.

like in the old days, everyone knows where they live. We encourage residents to clearly mark and light their addresses," he said. "Many times a painted number on a house cannot be seen at night. A number under a light that can be seen from the road is a great help. Reflective signs on the mailbox post are very helpful."

Owens said if numbers are placed on mailbox posts, they should be on both sides so responders can read them from both directions.

Guidelines for placement

State guidelines call for a number to be placed on a residence if it is within 50 feet of the edge of the road right of way.

The number should be displayed on the front of the residence near the front door.

If the residence is more than 50 feet from the edge of the road, the number should be displayed on a post, fence, wall, mailbox or a structure at the property line next to the walk or access drive to the residence.

The numbers should be of a color and size so they may be clearly visible from the road.

Incorrect addresses

Town and emergency officials sometimes find that house numbers were incorrectly assigned in the original numbering process.

When the Oxford County Regional Communications Center (which takes 911 calls) finds or is notified of an incorrect address, a report is made and sent to the town official responsible for E-911 addresses, said Jim Miclon, director of the RCC.

Miclon said the center produces about 10 reports a week of incorrect addresses.

utive of the company.

American Skiing began operating The Canyons in 1997, taking over a tiny ski area called Wolf Mountain. Over the years it invested heavily in mountain and base lodge amenities, adding terrain and lifts as recently as last winter.

It previously announced the sale of Maine's two largest ski areas — Sunday River and Sugarloaf/USA, leaving The Canyons as its last resort.

In February, American Skiing disclosed it was selling Vermont's Mount Snow and New Hampshire's Attitash ski areas for $73.5 million.

Then, four days later, it announced the sale of Vermont's Killington and Pico resorts for $83.5 million.

American Skiing's majority preferred stockholder pushed for the company's liquidation. Still, New York-based private equity firm Oak Hill Capital Partners won't recover its entire investment in American Skiing, company executives said.

Common stockholders will get nothing as American Skiing dissolves and lets corporate employees go, said David Hirasawa, the company's investor-relations director.

"This is not a default type of arrangement. We are not in bankruptcy. We are paying out to different equity holders in order of seniority," he said.

American Skiing's board, which includes Oak Hill, realized the money it could get from its ski areas when it got a $265 million offer on Colorado's Steamboat Springs resort, a smaller but more popular resort than The Canyons, from Canadian resort operator Intrawest Corp.

Steamboat changed hands in March.

"We got exceptionally strong value for that resort," Hirasawa said.

"On the heels of that transaction, and because the value was so strong, we were forced to explore some opportunities (to sell) our remaining resorts."

"The decision was the result of strong market conditions," he said.

Scott, 27, of Mason Street Bethel then jumped out of the car and ran into the woods.

Reese chased him to the edge of the woods, then returned and called for backup, Carr said.

State police K-9 Trooper Tyler Stevenson was contacted to bring his dog.

BPD Lt. S.R. White also responded.

Scott was wanted on a probation violation through

Oxford County, said Carr. Scott's original offense was tampering with a witness following an assault charge against him.

Stevenson and Reese spent the next three hours searching the swampy area for Scott, while White stayed with the vehicle and driver.

Game Warden Sgt. Norm Lewis also joined the search. Lewis spotted a man operating an unregistered ATV on the road, Carr said, and stopped him.

It turned out to be Scott, who had picked up the ATV somewhere in the course of the chase, Carr said.

Scott was arrested and taken to the Oxford County Jail.

He was also charged by Reese with possession of a usable amount of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department

I'm sure you must have read or at least heard about a recent study proving that men and women spend approximately the same amount of time talking.

A state university did this study, so in all likelihood the federal government, which means you, funded it and I paid for it with our tax dollars. Veterans hospitals are being defunded, but I'm willing to bet that no one even batted an eye to cough up a high grand to find out something that most intelligent people already knew.

I'd also be willing to bet that the idea of doing the study in the first place was the brainstorm of a man. Either because he thought his wife talked too much and he wanted to prove that excess talking was a woman thing, which of course he didn't prove, or because of the very fact he is a man and men do weird things.

I'm sorry guys, but it's true and I don't think a study is needed to prove it.

My son-in-law is a good example of the weirdness of men. Jay recently had a birthday and he only wanted one thing; an iPod. His wife and children each have an iPod and he didn't want to be left out. That's understandable, but being a man, he didn't want just any iPod like everyone else, oh no, he just had to have a video iPod.

Because he's really a nice guy, a great husband to my daughter and wonderful dad to my grandsons, I willingly chipped in my share to help my daughter get the "must have" video iPod for his birthday.

Jay was very happy with the gift. So happy that he promptly started to download a movie off of an Internet site onto his birthday present. There is nothing weird about that and I'll give him credit for perseverance because it took five days to complete the download.

My son-in-law is a good example of the weirdness of men.

Here's where it gets weird. He spent five days downloading a movie that he all ready has on DVD. Not to mention the fact that he has a giant television to watch the movie on. I mean the television takes up the better part of one whole wall. And he's very excited that he can now watch a movie he already owns on a darn 2" screen. I don't care what you say, that's downright weird.

Just so you don't think I am one of those mother-in-laws who think her daughter married beneath her, I have previously stated what a good guy Jay is and I love him dearly and think he's wonderful, but he definitely is weird.

And my husband is weird too. During the winter months if the temperature in our bedroom drops below 72 degrees Henry just has to have another blanket added to the bed. Even if it's fairly warm in our bedroom if it's below zero outside Henry will go for the extra blanket every time. I concede the fact that Henry is an older man and older people easily get cold, nothing weird about that.

However, once warmer weather comes and we put the air conditioner in the bedroom window Henry sets it for 65 degrees and runs it every single night no matter what the temperature may be outside. There have been some summer nights that have dipped quite low and it was so cold in the bedroom that I put my long johns on, but the darn air conditioner was still turned on.

When fall arrives and the air conditioner is put away for the winter an extra blanket is going to go on that darn bed no matter what. I call that pretty weird.

I know that's only two examples of two men, but there just isn't enough space in this column to expand on this subject. I could, in fact, write a book on how weird men are. If I could get my hands on some taxpayers' federal dollars I could even do a study on the weirdness of me. Maybe I could even do the study as a video documentary and Jay could spend five days downloading it onto his darn video iPod. Yes, I could do all of that, but it would be just too gosh darn weird and the way I see it weirdness is strictly a man thing.

School Board pays down debts

BETHEL—The SAD44 School Board recently approved funds left over from the FY'07 budget to pay down district debts. Approved were $106,615 to pay off the existing principal on the Telstar Boiler Replacement Project, and $49,320 for a payment on the track/auditorium loan. Supt. Dave Murphy said the source of the funds had been staff positions that were unfilled this year, and unexpected revenue that was received. The board had earlier approved using $50,000 from the Contingency Fund toward a boiler payment. The payments, said Murphy, will save the district "a substantial amount of money in the coming years."

Tips from the Bethel Police Department

1. If you dial 911 by mistake, don't hang up. Stay on the line and tell the dispatcher what happened.
2. So that responders can find you quickly in an emergency, make sure your house number is clearly visible from the road — place the number on the house if it is near the road, or on a mailbox or post if the house sits more than 50 feet back.

Rumford Hospital
The Central Maine Medical Family

Emergency Department

"I like working at Rumford Hospital because it provides me the opportunity to work in a rural community hospital.

I split my time between CMMC, a Level II trauma facility and Rumford Hospital, which offers me the best of both worlds. What I like about Rumford is the change of pace and the friendly and supportive staff.

What Central Maine Medical Family brings to Rumford is an exceptional group of well-trained emergency physicians, all of whom are certified by the American Board of Emergency Medicine. There are few rural community hospitals in the country that have such a fine group of emergency physicians.

Rumford is fortunate, too, to have a newly renovated and expanded state-of-the-art emergency department."

Bethel

Inside and Outside Bethel

By Donald G. Bennett
In the midst of the week's excitement about disaster at Bethel Water District's Barker Mountain watershed, our nearby gas stations managed to bump up their prices to $3.04 per gallon.

Events showed Bethel has its own "Minutemen." It is truly amazing how quickly the Bethel Water District was able to get water flowing into the village system after the amount of damage done to it by Wednesday night's thunderstorms.

Saturday morning I hiked up through the mess that existed along the main path of debris washed down the mountain. Cross Excavation's men, trucks and grader were still at work on the road to the reservoir area. Pipe on loan from David McCrum's Sunday River Farm (formerly Ladd's) was stretched for 1,500 feet through the woods bringing water from a hastily constructed catch basin on a Chapman Brook tributary to its joining with the regular water main pipe. The amount of engineer work done on roads, bridges, culverts, dams and clearing was more than impressive, it was incredible. Lucien Roberge and Don Katlin were checking the jury-rigged system and its backup, the Paradise Reservoir. Jack Cross was checking on his crew's progress. But overall the system was running and it was only 48 hours after John Head had given me a Thursday morning rundown on the damage. In a small town with so few key people to capably handle this type of work, we all depend on their health, skill and physical endurance. It is like Winston Churchill's famous statement that "Never was so much owed by so many to so few."

Photographs cannot accurately show the amount of devastation to earth and forest that had occurred. In some places I estimated that the avenue created by the almost tidal-wave-

ATOP MT. ST. HELENS—Jim Rector of Upton, his two brothers (all of whom are over 60) and a nephew recently climbed Mt. St. Helens in Washington. The volcanic mountain erupted in 1980. Only 100 climbers are given permits by the Park Service on any given day to hike the mountain. On the day Rector climbed, he said, "Many of those 100 gave up and didn't make it to the top. All of the Rector men made it." They climbed 4,600 feet to the summit, 8,300 feet above sea level, in six hours. Rector is pictured here at the rim of the crater at the summit.

like episode was 400 to 500 feet wide. Some places look like sandy beaches among trees. Debris is a mixture of ripped-out mature pines and other smaller trees, huge boulders, gravel and smaller stones. In some places the power and velocity of the torrent forced the main stream of water and debris into side branches that themselves were up to 100-feet wide in some places.

On the week's plus side
Mt. Mann Jewelers held their sixth annual auction last Saturday. Jim Mann told me that he was very pleased with this year's showing — when he started he had figured on it taking five to six years to catch on. This year 40 people, 30 percent more than last year, signed up for the auction of 104 items that went in two hours. The auction is not only good for the mineral and gem business but Mann also donates a portion of the sales to local nonprofits. This year their dividend will be 400 to 500 dollars. During the week until Mollycoddett Day Mt. Mann's free-for-kids tent exhibit of rocks and minerals will stay open.

Mt. Mann's museum is also open as part of the store and is intended to attract more passersby which when tied in with the regular summer mineral and gem show is Jim's vehicle of educating more visitors and kids to the world of "rocks." Although western Maine is generally very well known to rockhounds getting specific people interested in specific minerals takes patience and attractiveness — part of Jim's larger marketing plan. Last year our youngest grandson was looking for a specific mineral he had learned about in school and was able to find it at the mineral and gem association show, plus he actually bought another item that had caught his attention. So that is how Mt. Mann's location on Main Street is supposed to work.

Thursday BIG Adventure had a number of youth groups rolling in on school buses — Biddeford, Auburn, Maranacook and others. BIG's water slide was active and we had a good time along with many others playing putt-putt golf.

Sunday morning the parking lot automobile/RV population at the Norseman Inn, Bethel Outdoor Adventure, Briar Lea and Rostay indicated that Mayville's summer lodging hosts were having a good weekend. The Rostay had a No Vacancy sign displayed.

I need to correct my last week's news column. The selectmen's next meeting to discuss Mason Street's sidewalk proposal is Sept. 10 not the 3rd as I had reported. Also, if history is a guide, the sidewalk advocates may need patience and more political skills than they had originally anticipated.

From the late 1880s county newspapers comes this story: In 1886 Abiel Chandler and his wife Ellen had built the Alpine House (now owned by the Zicarellis) in the area known then as Mason Park. They had sold part of their Waterspout Mountain Farm. The Chandlers were in the tourist/summer boarder business. They had built a private road from the end of Chapman Street (vicinity of the Cooley home) to the Alpine House. Others then extended the road further toward Broad Street.

To get Mason Street on the map, it took two annual Town Meetings in 1889 and 1890, a special Town Meeting in 1889 plus involvement by the Oxford County Commissioners to settle disagreements on the path for the new street. The Chandlers became the main driving force for this project — probably due to their inn interests. In November 1889, Abiel wrote that new street would be named Mason Street but for all the work he had done he thought it should be named Chandler Street. Maybe, if the sidewalk becomes reality someday, the town will see fit to name it Chandler Sidewalk.

Last month I bought a new Acer computer. My surprise came when I used the e-mail spell checker for the first time. It is in French. So it wants to change a correctly spelled English word to the French equivalent.

Channel 6 TV's local news people have been using some of their time slots to talk up the surge in traveler use and addition of more airlines flying in and out of Portland. Friday we took our grandsons to the big PWM for their flight home to Newark airport. Their Continental flight was due to depart at 6:30 p.m. We had checked in earlier and found far more security personnel than passengers around. When boarding time came the airline's gate clerk very politely, friendly and efficiently got the boys' unaccompanied passenger paperwork checked over and the boys into the plane. And the plane left its gate right on time. About fifteen minutes later the same gate person came to tell us smilingly that the plane was on ground hold; therefore, we should stay until it took off. The plane continued to sit near the end of the runway but all the airline people around us left. Finally, about 7:20 p.m. we saw the plane start to roll and by 7:30 it was taking off. By this time only US Air at the other end of the building had passengers waiting in seats. When we got to the exit, there were so few people around that we half expected to see a sign taped to the door saying "Will the last one out please turn off the lights." And this was the start of a summer vacation weekend.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte
Another rainy Sunday. July sure has been a washout. Last week heavy rain with flooding on Route 26 in Newry and Route 2 in Gilead made for an isolated Upton. Barry Swasey, ever faithful to his mail route came up through Andover and East "B" Hill to deliver all those bills to us. We had already resigned ourselves to a mail-less day. "Atta Boy" was earned by Barry.

The bear is still showing up, although we thought he had left last week. Ginny Williamson, the Goodrum's and others have had visits, in spite of removing the birdfeeders.

Terry Nelson and grandson visited Larry Nelson while Sue traveled to Thomaston to join her daughter, Tara, and grandchildren.

Jim George dropped in while he was in town.

The gardens are growing like mad with all the rain; however, the tomatoes may ripen by Christmas with the cold nights that we are experiencing.

Paul Casey presented a program on the future of the Wildlife Refuge. The beauty of the area and preservation of our wildlife require very careful

The many friends and relatives of Roger Lavallee met at the Ladies Aid Building in his memory on Monday, July 9. Roger was the second male to belong to the Ladies Aid. Charles Heywood was the first. Friends from Errol, Colebrook, Stewartstown, Berlin, Bethel and Newry joined with the Upton people to honor him.

The Mahoosuc Land Trust held their 2007 Garden Tour on Sunday, July 15. The gardens were exquisite with flowers, shrubs and trees. They donated lots of hard work and dedication.

Paul and Jen Casey and others from Upton enjoyed it immensely.

Mother Robin is at it again. She is sitting on her nest preparing for her next brood. The rain provided her with an ample supply of worms to feed the last offspring.

I think there will be a bumper crop of turkeys come fall. We have seen three mother turkeys with at least ten in each family.

The hummingbirds are returning to the feeders. We haven't seen any females for some time, but yesterday we were visited by two females and an immature hummingbird. The flowers are in full bloom so they are receiving a share of natural food as well as the sugar supplement.

West Bethel

by Lorrie Hoeh

It seems to be the "yellow" season. Canada lilies, with their nodding yellow heads and brown-spotted throats, are blooming like crazy along the roadsides. There is an especially large grouping on the northwest corner of the Grover Hill/Flat Road intersection. They seem to like wet feet. Adding to the yellow display are black-eyed susans, evening primrose, marigolds, and gaillardia, as well as a couple of varieties of daylily.

One can also see loads of elderberry blossoms on the bushes along streams and near boggy areas. Last year Mike picked a mess of them, and we made two batches of elderberry jelly, one of the best jellies in the world.

Sunday River Alpaca has had the last of this year's crias. Sunday Punch was born about two and a half weeks ago, with "Doc" Maureen acting as midwife. All turned out well. Sadly, one of the baby girls born earlier succumbed to an overwhelming sepsis and is no more. Her mother, Pumpkin, has been bred again and should deliver late next spring.

Last Wednesday the Bethel Senior Citizens took a field trip to Naples where they had a ride on a paddle-wheel steamer. The fog lifted, revealing a pleasant day, and a good time was had by all.

On Saturday night the West Bethel Union Church had another of its public suppers. More than sixty happy people attended and enjoyed a great meal, adding to the coffers of the church. These suppers are a volunteer effort on the part of parishioners, who cook up the casseroles and put together pies and such.

Speaking of the church, don't forget to save your coffee cans for the cookie brigade. The

Pleasant Valley Grange seems to be doing well with its flea market, better than usual, in fact. Be sure to stop by for that item without which you can't live. The market is open Fridays and Saturdays all summer, except for this Saturday, which is Mollycodd Day. No way are the Grangers going to miss that!

Monday was a sunny, pleasant summer day for a change. I think I've started to grow mold from all the dampness we have been having. This was the first Monday I've been able to hang out laundry in several weeks.

Mike will have had his 77th birthday on Wednesday. If you see the old guy, wish him Happy Birthday.

Gilead

by Lin Chapman

This certainly has been a busy week. The town of Gilead was hit with major storm damage on July 11 and is still trying to recover. I will try to keep my report short since the paper is also covering the story.

During the evening of the 11th, the thunderstorms and heavy rain hit the Route 2 and North Road area from Wild River down to Bethel and over the mountain in Newry.

Around 9:30 p.m. everything seemed to happen at once. The little brook that runs behind the picnic area went across the road and sent one car into the water that needed to be rescued by Cole's Custom

Auto towing. Just around the corner, near the logging operation, the rain washed a large amount of mud into the road that needed to be removed the next day by a grader. There were several places that the St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railroad tracks were under water and undermined.

The evening train tried to go through but ended spending the night in Gilead after backing up above the crossings. It was just too dangerous for them to get through.

traffic. Having both major roads unsafe for travel made the town isolated except in the New Hampshire direction. This turned out to be a good thing since rescue from Gorham, N.H., was needed in the middle of all this. The Gilead Fire Department responded immediately to the disaster. One of the firemen and his family, Jamie McLean, were coming home and just made it through Route 2 when they saw the little car go into the water.

The GFD handled traffic and shutting down the road throughout the night and most of the next day. There was a call to Route 113 for stranded motorists. Two firemen, Richard Saunders and Jamie McLean, responded with the squad truck. As they approached the Little Lary Brook Bridge, the road washed away and they went across the hole and hit the bridge. They were very lucky to walk away with a cut on the chin for Richard and a bruised elbow for Jamie. The truck was not so lucky and was totaled. Everyone is thankful that they are all right. Gorham Rescue transported them to the hospital. Route 113 in Evans Notch will be closed for quite some time.

Fred Corriveau, highway commissioner, responded immediately and began putting out barricades and shutting down the road. Fabian Corriveau was doing double duty for a while, since he was helping Fred and the GFD at the same time.

There was a supply of coffee and home-baked goodies at the Fire Station for the firemen.

My brother, Steve McLain, was lucky that evening. He made it home from the selectmen's meeting just before everything let loose. He came to town on Thursday to survey the damage to the area and the squad truck, since he is a selectman and a member of the fire department.

According to Beverley Corriveau, Gilead's administrative assistant, there will be a meeting with Scott Parker, Oxford County Emergency Management Agency director, to work on the paperwork to obtain funds to help repair all the damage. Since the Governor declared the area in a state of emergency, funds should be available.

Gilead Fire Department

After their few days of wild weather issues, the GFD reported for duty to the Oxford County Mineral and Gem Show over the weekend. They flipped burgers and made french fries for all to enjoy. It was a good thing that they had extra help from their auxiliary team (their wives) since they were still tired from lack of sleep. Richard was there with his stitches in his chin and Jamie with his elbow wrapped up. They all work very hard and are appreciated.

The show was well attended and had 17 vendors with all kinds of interesting things, from mineral specimens to beautiful jewelry. One of the members of the auxiliary, Kim Hood, won the drawing for an hourly door prize.

Gilead Historical Society

Things are quiet except for some info on members. Howard and Stevie Reiche have called a couple of times to check up on how things are going with all the bad weather. They saw all the news footage on television and hoped that everyone is fine. Robert and Judy Bishop from Yarmouth attended the Mineral Show over the weekend and looked at the storm pictures that I had brought. Heide Munro stopped by to see if the Yard Sale had been successfully wrapped up. Hugh and I delivered the leftover items to the Paris Cape Historical Society in South Paris. Bill and Cynthia Immonen met us to help unload. Another member who appeared to help was John Davis and we got to visit with him. He attended the Mineral Show also and hand delivered his membership dues to the GHS. Glad to have him on board.

On the lighter side

Bob and Gladys Taylor attended the Fourth of July fireworks in Errol, N.H., with two of their grandchildren, Alexa and Taylor Maddocks. They met up with Mike and Regina Chapman and their children.

Stick Café for lunch. Little did we know that the torrential rains and very noisy thunder followed by ski-brightening lightning would render the roads impassable for most of the next day.

On Thursday when I was already to drive to Rumbold, my neighbor called to tell me the bridge was out over Great Brook. I did need a few things and thought I might meet my friend, Danny Tieger of New York, who summers at Rangeley Lake, for lunch in Errol and get what I needed there. Not so, except to mail and buy a couple of stamps. We did have a nice visit and will meet again before he heads back to the city in the fall.

I did see Nancy Thew at Cote's. She drives from Upton to Errol to work — a gorgeous drive when the weather conditions are right. We said hello but she was busy. On my return I did drive to the washed-out bridge. Traffic had just begun to be allowed over the repaired bridge around 3:30 p.m.

Mark told me that he and Mo Ginther talked about the washout. She told him that she was the last person to cross the bridge Wednesday night around 11 and had no idea that the bridge was unsafe. I am very glad she made it across.

Seeing occupants at the Eames place on the Branch Road recently, I called Kay of Cape Elizabeth to see how she was doing. She did have her hip repaired recently and is able to walk very carefully with some pressure on it. Her daughter, Bonnie Bowden from Melrose, Mass., has been of assistance during this time. Kay did tell me if all goes well she hopes to be able to come to Newry this summer. I do hope to see her this year.

On Saturday, I drove to the recycling center. I think my main reason for going was to stop and have a delicious cup of coffee, snacks and socialization at the BRTTP on my way home. Debbie's parents are here and her dad was tending the store. He did tell me he and his wife are relocating to the Bethel area. Glad to hear they will be nearby.

On my return from the Trading Post, I went out front to clip some boughs and prune a few branches. Brenda Bartholomew stopped in and we enjoyed a cup of tea on the front porch and caught up on a few things going on. She is a busy person and I was very pleased with the visit. Brenda wanted to know the name of one of my very pretty plants. I could not think of the name while she was here. I don't think she even got to Route 26 before it popped into my head. Of course, I had to look up the spelling. It is a streptocarpus that I got at Mountain Greenery last year.

On the 16th, I had lunch with several classmates at Teena's in Rumbold. Richard Austin had all of us girls to himself. This included Margaret Dean, Judith Grover Tent 17 Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War met on Monday, July 9, for a regular meeting with six members present. President Elsie Bonney appointed Marybeth Hoover as chaplain and Helvi Cary as guide. President Bonney welcomed new Department President Helvi Cary and congratulated her.

The picnic next month was discussed and will be held at the Grange Hall on Aug. 13. Tent 8 and Tent 9 are to be invited as well as Sons of Union Veterans. Tent 8 will furnish hot dogs, hamburg and rolls. Each one is to bring a salad, dessert or chips to share. Elsie is to call Gail. Michelle Cary was reported on. Twenty-one calls were reported. Mystery package went to Elsie Bonney. Sally read an article about "Earning Your Desk" — how a teacher taught her students about how very much the service men and women have done for this country — a good lesson for everyone. A new list of department officers was received.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Russell ("Joe") Yates, who used to live in Woodstock.

Thanks to the Woodstock Elementary School children for the flags on our light poles.

You're a great bunch! Historical Society and Museum

Curator Larry Billings notes there will be a special exhibit at the museum called "Christmas in July" for a couple of weeks near the end of the month.

Annella Burnham and Evelyn Bean watched the Historical Society Museum recently and Paul and Vicki set up a table for the society at the Grange sale.

The museum has information and artifacts relating to many famous Woodstock citizens. We have had a president's daughter, a Maine governor, an Episcopal bishop, an author, a captain, a conductor, mill owners, a general and many others in town over the years. Visit the museum and learn about them.

Society members have been raising money to pay the insurance next year, among other things. Your support is greatly appreciated as always. Thanks to Annella Burnham of the finance committee for organizing the fundraising campaign.

Jane Mills donated to the museum some wooden boxes used to transport ballots in a special election. They had the name of Sylvia Judkins on them. Much thanks!

Larry Billings gave an Amish doll and neck chain 1/c pendant to the museum. Larry bought something for himself from Gloria Arrow. He divided his time between the Grange sale and the museum except for a short drive up to her shop. He gave pieces of tourmaline to Annella Burnham, Olive Risko and Evelyn Bean for watching the museum. He gave his mother a cameo. She watches the museum a lot.

Be sure to visit the museum this summer. It is open each Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. Meetings are the second Saturday of each month at 7 p.m.

Waterford

by Rockie Graham

It is mid summer now and the flowers and the plants in the garden are all blooming. We can have salads that come all from the garden, I love it. The snow peas are ripe and very tasty. The lettuce and spinach are still going strong. The carrots are growing well and should come in strong soon. I love fresh carrots from the garden. The radishes start to get a little woody, but many are still edible. The flowers are blooming more than ever. Life is good!

I started physical therapy this week. I am hoping it will take pressure off my hip and relieve some of the pain. It is that old sciatic nerve. It is a common ailment, I know. Dave is now complaining about it too. It makes it harder to walk and play and I can't ride my bicycle. This too shall pass.

On our way home from Bridgton, we stopped at the supermarket. I tried shark meat. It was on sale and I thought why not? Now I know why not. It was absolutely awful. We gave it to the birds. They haven't touched it yet, either. Tasha doesn't like fish. She's like Dave in that way.

This weekend is Mollycoddle Day in Bethel and Waterford World's Fair in Waterford. Both sound like great fun. The World's Fair is agricultural with livestock demonstrations, a pig scramble for the kids and all kinds of fun and fair food. It runs from Friday, July 20, to Sunday, July 22.

Mollycoddle Day is Saturday, July 21, and includes races (food and bed), food and music, arts and crafts, a frog-jumping contest, a duck race and a fiddler's contest. At dusk there are fireworks at the Bethel Inn.

Saturday is also the Telstar Car Show from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. There will be cars, trucks, motorcycles, street rods and tractors with winners in each class. There will also be food, music and a 50/50 raffle.

The 29th Founder's Day is also on Saturday. It is on Park Hill. It will support the Hannibal Hamlin Library and Museum. Activities include music, dance, horse and wagon rides and a craft and food fair. Admission to the Bahre Collection is $8 for adults and $2 for children. Group rates are available. FMI: 743-2980.

Sunday, July 22, is Lovell's 8th annual Antique Show and Sale. It is at Lovell Historical Society's Stanford Kimball House opposite Lake Kezar Country Club. Admission is $3. Free appraisals on two items. Raffle, grilled food and goodies and beverages available. FMI: 925-2251.

That is all there is room for. See you at the fairs. Have a great week.

Albany

by Sheila Dyke

Greetings and hello from Albany Township. I don't think I need to get into how the weather's been, but I am happy to say that I haven't heard of nor seen any terrible damage done by the thunderstorms to our area.

An 89th Birthday Party was held for Bud Bowden at his home on June 24. Those in attendance from the Bethel/Albany area were Edna York, Muriel Butters, Anne Greenleaf, Leah Deegan, Betty Lou and Frank Gingras, and Buzzie and Louie Sargent. Bud's sister, Nella Perkins, and his nephew, Scott Perkins, came up from Bolton, Mass. His daughters, Gail Olson and Judith Colletta and her husband Mike all came up from Woonsocket, R.I. Bud's niece, Julie Phaneaf and her husband "BJ" came up from Kennebunk. Leah's chicken pie was said to be excellent, the company shared was great, and "a good time was had by all." Everyone is looking forward to Bud's 90th next year!

Bud also enjoyed week-long guests over the 4th of July holiday. His granddaughter, Leah Gross and her husband Glenn, visited from Oolitic, Ind., along with their children, Bethany and Evan. Another granddaughter, Valerie Bowden, came up from North Kingston, R.I., and Judith and her family were up as well. Everyone had a fun week, topped off by a lobster feast on the night of the 4th.

The Albany Improvement Association is accepting donations for their annual yard sale. Contact Buzzie at 824-2568 or Norma at 824-2305.

The Barton's PYO strawberry fields still seem to be open, but, call ahead to be certain of the hours. We grabbed several quarts from their stand last week. Dana made up some jam and we enjoyed some of the fresh fruit as is. The Bartons always have such wonderful produce to offer from their farm stand, and we are looking forward to many other wonderful treats.

Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless and Keep!

Bethel Senior Citizens

The Bethel Senior Citizens Club met at The Bethel Area Health Center parking lot July 11 and traveled by car to Naples for a cruise on the Song Queen. Eighteen members made the trip and everyone enjoyed lunch before returning home.

The next meeting will be held at 11 a.m. on Aug. 8 at Stony Brook Camp Ground and will be the annual picnic. Members are to bring either a salad or dessert to share.

July birthdays are: Luna Akers, Joyce Bennett, Nancy Kimball, Bud Paine, George Palmer, Nancy Mercer, Raymond Saunders, Phyllis Smith, Marilyn King and Ginny Walker.

The Lewin Center

The Lewin Center sponsors educational events and research to further causes of social justice. Its home, at the Gehring House on Broad Street, is also the site of many local meetings, retreats, and educational events.

The NTL Institute, owner of the Gehring House (leased to The Lewin Center), is in Bethel until Aug. 11. Christine Greenleaf, coordinator of Bethel programming, has been working hard to prepare for the sessions that will take place at the Gehring House, as well as at the Bethel Inn Conference Center, and Gould Academy. The Lewin Center is delighted to welcome NTL back. We will all look for more information on Sunrise Seminars.

On Tuesday, July 10, a Garden Tea Party was held at the Gehring House. Several local horticulturalists met to tour the gardens and identify plants. As the summer progresses, more volunteers will be working hard, pulling weeds and grass, to nurture the valuable plants identified by this group.

We are pleased that The Lewin Center Board of Directors will be meeting at the Gehring House on July 28. Most directors, including Charlie and Edie Seashore, will be traveling to Bethel from their homes in Maryland.

For more information on The Lewin Center or the Gehring House, call Nancy Davis at 256-6956. We expect our website to be up and running this week; that's www.lewin-center.org.

Andover Education Fund

At the July meeting of the board of directors for the Andover Educational Fund, the board unanimously moved to disburse $2,500 a year for each applying student — up from $1,600 per year. Those students include: Kayla Mills attending Simmons College, Jennifer Learned attending University of Southern Maine, Nicholas Hammond, NASCAR Technical Institute; Matthew Mills, Northeastern University; Joseline Belanger, University of Southern Maine; Kayla Morin, University of Southern Maine; Lauren Gammon, University of Maine at Farmington; Abby Mills, University of Vermont; Cynthia Farrington, University of New England; Sherry Downs, Eastern Maine Community College; Joshua Longway, Northeastern University; Lacy Gammon, University of Maine at Augusta; Ashley Stambolis, University of Maine at Orono; Frank Emerson, Cornell University; Jessica Farrington, Central Maine Community College; Jessica Putnam, Thomas College; Clayton Smith, Norwich University; and Lindsey Farrington, University of Maine at Machias. Students need to be reminded to notify Wendy Hutchins or Sharon Hutchins when funds are to be sent.

We are very proud of the accomplishments of Andover's students, and are especially pleased to participate in their educational goals.

Dee Palmer was also granted $500 to be applied to the National Youth Leadership Forum on medicine in Atlanta, Ga. Dee will be attending this forum the last week in July.

The annual campaign will begin this early fall. If you do not receive a newsletter, write to Sharon Hutchins at Andover Educational Fund, Inc., PO Box 32, Andover, ME 04216 or leave a message at 392-4351 for inclusion.

The next scheduled meeting is in November.

From Oxford County Republicans

Steve Abbott, chief of staff for U.S. Senator Susan Collins (R-Maine), was the featured speaker at the annual picnic of the Oxford County Republican Committee held on July 10 on Republican State Committeeman Stan Howe's lawn at his Broad Street residence.

Following a bountiful barbecued dinner attended by more than sixty Republicans and sponsored by the Bethel Republican Town Committee, Abbott was introduced by Stan Howe, who noted Abbott's Rumford roots. In his remarks, Abbott provided insights into a number of issues facing the U.S. Senate and Maine's junior U.S. Senator. He also spoke on how proud he was to be serving a Senator with such an outstanding record of accomplishment over the past ten years, and also cited her phenomenal work ethic, her unbroken roll call record, her 100-percent rating in support of small businesses, and her numerous efforts to forge bipartisan coalitions in the Senate.

Demonstrating her effectiveness during the 109th Congress, for example, Abbott pointed to the following bills she sponsored that became law: Iraq Reconstruction Accountability Act, the Safe Port Act, the Chemical Facility Anti-Terrorism Act, and the Reservist Pay Security Act. In addition, she secured passage of immigration legislation that allowed minor league athletes to assume the same category as major league athletes, enactment of postal reform legislation, a teachers' tax deduction of $250 for school supplies, tariff legislation on a special rayon needed in an

Auburn factory, a tax credit for renewal energy, and a bill to strengthen FEMA. "These," Abbott insisted in concluding his remarks, "are just a few of the many reasons why Susan Collins is so highly respected in the U.S. Senate and is rated as one of the most effective and popular legislators in the nation."

Following the speaker's presentation, there was a brief business meeting during which State Committeewoman Becky Kendall of Bethel reported on the caucus committee meeting held recently at the State Committee headquarters in Augusta.

The next meeting was announced for Aug. 14 at the Fryeburg Fair Grounds.

From White Mountain National Forest

Summer is upon us and the White Mountain National Forest is a haven if you're looking for a getaway. You'll find just the spot to hike, bike, fish, camp, or sit by a cool river on a hot day.

Visitors are being reminded that the nearly 800,000-acre National Forest may feel like their backyard, but it is wild land. Be prepared for changing weather, rough terrain, slippery footing, and wildlife encounters.

Camping

The Forest is home to black bears that quickly become habituated to human food in campgrounds. It is vital that you keep a clean campsite to ensure bears and other animals don't forage for your food.

One suggestion is putting coolers and food containers in your vehicle when you finish your meal and close the windows. A determined bear will climb in your tent, through a car window, or as was reported this week, on top of a car to try and reach coolers. Place trash in the bear-proof dumpsters. If camping in the backcountry, hang your food bag at least 10 feet up and 5 feet out from a tree limb that will not support a bear. Repeat offenders are trapped and relocated. If they return they may be killed. Remember, a fed bear is a dead bear!

Water Activities

Every year many people across the country die in water-related accidents. The lakes, ponds, rivers, and streams of the White Mountain National Forest are beautiful, but you must realize hazards exist, some hidden and others more obvious. Slippery rocks, hazards below the surface, and the strength of moving water all affect your safety. Depth, clarity, speed, and hydraulic forces can vary tremendously due to spring melt-off, heavy rainfall, or slower seasonal changes. Always be responsible and assess the hazards and your risks before entering any section of water.

Hiking

As you plan a hiking trip check out the hikeSafe website at www.hikesafe.com. You'll find gear lists, weather information, the hikers' code and much more such as this advice on hypothermia and heat exhaustion.

In summer, you may encounter extremes in temperatures from winter-like cold to high heat and humidity, along with rapid changes in the weather. You may associate hypothermia only with winter; however in the mountains hypothermia can be an issue year-round. That is why it's important to have warm, waterproof clothing with you no matter what it's like when you start your hike.

Summer's heat can create problems for hikers, including heat exhaustion, which will leave you feeling tired, nauseous, dizzy, and headachy. Rest, rehydration and a good night's sleep are the treatment for heat exhaustion.

Heat stroke is a life-threatening illness. Symptoms include confusion, delirium and loss of consciousness. The skin feels hot as the body's cooling mechanism fails. This is a true emergency. Cooling the patient immediately is essential.

Asthma and other respiratory conditions may be triggered by heat. Have all appropriate medications.

Both heat exhaustion and heat stroke can be prevented by avoiding overexertion on hot days. Pace yourself, rest often and drink plenty of water throughout your hike. You'll know that you've drunk enough water if your urine is "clear as mountain spring water."

Perhaps the most common, and serious condition in the summertime is dehydration. Dehydration occurs when your body loses too much fluid. This can happen when you stop drinking water or lose large amounts of fluid through sweating and the exertion of hiking. Not drinking enough fluids can cause muscle cramps. You may feel faint. Usually your body can reabsorb fluid from your blood and other body tissues. But by the time you become severely dehydrated, you no longer have enough fluid in your body to get blood to your organs, and you may go into shock, which is a life-threatening condition.

Remember, the memories created during your trip to the White Mountain National Forest should make you smile. Be safe, think ahead, and enjoy this beautiful forest.

From

Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

A slightly condensed version of the Bethel Historical Society's highly acclaimed "Molly Ockett and Her World" exhibit is now available on the society's website. Housed at the Robinson House from July 2004 through May 2007, the original exhibit utilized photographs, artifacts, paintings and written text to tell the story of the Abenaki woman Molly Ockett and the world in which she lived from her birth at Saco, Maine around 1740 to her death in Andover, Maine in 1816. Honored annually at Bethel's "Molly Ockett Day" celebration, her name is now associated with numerous geographic landmarks, business ventures, and community organizations in western Maine.

Since her death, Molly Ockett has become a legendary figure, the subject of fireside storytelling, of school pageants, and of popular magazine articles. The "Indian mystique" — complete with romance, curses, buried treasures, and near miraculous cures — has insured Molly Ockett's place in the consciousness of the region. Importantly, the society's exhibit elevates Molly Ockett from the realm of myth and legend to the status of a documented personage in the colonial early nationhood history of the Bethel area and the White Mountain region of Maine and New Hampshire.

Funding for the exhibit was provided by the Molly Ockett Chapter DAR and the Maine State Organization Daughters of the American Revolution. Those interested in visiting this exhibit should go to the society's website: www.bethel-historical.org.

Over 500 attended the 2007 Fourth of July Community Picnic on the grounds of Bethel Historical Society's Dr. Moses Mason House on July 4.

Sponsors for this annual event included the following: Wilder and Alice Abbott, Bethel; Leland Brown, Bethel; Dorothy Christie, Gray; Virginia Cole, Bethel; Burt deFrees, Rumford; Walter and Carol Hatch, Bethel; Jane Hosterman, West Bethel; C. P. Longley, Albany Twp.; Mundt-Allen Post 81, Bethel; Carol Nielsen, Bethel; James and Lucia Owen, Stoneham; Patricia Owen, Gorham, Maine; Eric and Lucia Schwarz, Bethel; Edna York, Bethel; Marvin and Tineke Ouwinga, Bethel; Hi and Mary Lou Berry, Newry; Bob and Nancy Chadbourne, Bethel; Nancy Mercer, Bethel; Marna McGinniss, Bethel; Barbara Lapham, Hanover; William and Deborah Andrews, Newry; Donald M. Christie, Jr., Gray; Harry and Elaine Dresser, Bethel; Rebecca Kendall, Bethel; Tom Mitchell, Culver City, Calif.; Bessie M. Bennett, Bethel; Barbara Douglass, Bethel; Carolyn Nygren, Sunrise, Fla.; John and Jane Payne, Baltimore, Md.; Henry and Pat Stewart, Bryant Pond; Charles and Frances Richmond, Simi Valley, Calif.; Eleanor Wilson, Bryant Pond; Annie Hastings, Bethel; David Jones and Angela Connolly, Portland; William Kieffer and James May, Boston, Mass.; Jack and Lucy Nordahl, Bethel; Richard and Lorrie Hoeh, Albany Twp.; Dean and Priscella Walker, Bethel; June Abbott, Bethel; Rosemary S. len and Jackie Cressy, Bethel; Mary W. Much appreciation is expressed to all of the above for their generosity in making possible this event that some have termed "the highlight of the summer in Bethel."

With nearly 1,400 members, the Bethel Historical Society, founded in 1966, is western Maine's largest and most comprehensive full-time historical agency, dedicated to collecting, preserving, and interpreting the regional past for present and future generations. For over forty years, the society's activities have included lectures, exhibits, special events, heritage festivals, workshops, conferences, school and educational programs, and publications.

In 1974, the society acquired the former Broad Street residence of Dr. Moses Mason, which now contains a period house museum, exhibit hall and research library. In 1999, the society opened the O'Neil Robinson House (next door at 10 Broad Street) to the public for an expanded exhibit program, museum shop space, and administrative offices. Through the years, the society's achievements have been recognized by a number of state and national organizations.

Further information about the society and its activities may be obtained by calling 824-2908 or (800) 824-2910, or by sending an e-mail to info@bethelhistorical.org. Additional information can also be obtained by checking the society's website at www.bethelhistorical.org. The society's mailing address is P.O. Box 12, Bethel, ME 04217-0012.

Maine Handicapped Skiing

Veterans/No Boundaries, a program of Maine Handicapped Skiing, is offering a fantastic sports and camp experience for veterans and active duty service people with physical disabilities at Camp Caribou in Winslow, Maine, Aug. 17, 18 and 19. Registration for the August program closes July 18.

Veterans with physical disabilities can participate in a variety of adaptive sports at Camp Caribou, including cycling, kayaking, fishing, golf, martial arts and wheelchair tennis.

Thanks to the support of Bath Iron Works, who provided a generous grant to underwrite the Veterans/No Boundaries program for 2007 and 2008, all equipment, instruction, meals and lodging are free to Veterans/No Boundaries participants.

Maine Handicapped Skiing's goal, through Veterans/No Boundaries, is to help any veteran (or active duty service man or woman) with a physical disability to learn new skills, build physical strength and gain self-confidence through participation in adaptive recreational activities. This will be the third year that Maine Handicapped Skiing has offered the summer program.

For complete details about this summer's program at Camp Caribou, please e-mail or call Diane Barras, program coordinator, at dbarras@skimhs.org or (800) 639-7770. The Oxford County University of Maine Cooperative Extension is offering a workshop on cut flowers on Tuesday, July 31, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. at the Extension office, 9 Olson Road, South Paris. Topics to be covered include plant choice, watering and fertilizing, planning for continuous bloom, and harvest and post-harvest techniques.

Please pre-register by Friday, July 27, by calling 743-6329 or (800) 287-1482. There is no charge for this workshop.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

QUESTIONS TO ASK A PROSPECTIVE REALTOR When you buy or sell a home, you want to work with a real estate agent who has the experience and expertise to handle a complex property transaction with a minimum amount of stress. When choosing a Realtor, you should look for technical competence and interpersonal skills.

Ask prospective Realtors several questions. How long have you been in the real estate business? How do your professional services differ from those of your colleagues? Do you have a principal broker/owner who works closely with you and serves as a backup person if you are not available? Keep in mind that there are no "right" answers to these questions. You are looking for practical information and trying to sense whether you want the Realtor to represent you in the transaction. Don't rule out a less-experienced agent who brings energy and enthusiasm to the job. You want personalized professional service from someone whom you can trust to lead you through the process.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771
